

POLICY: Donor Privacy

San Diego Habitat Conservancy (SDHC) values our past, current, and potential donors and adheres to strict privacy policies. SDHC will not sell, share, or trade any donors' names or personal information with any other entity, and will not send mailings to donors on behalf of other organizations. SDHC will not publicize any private donors unless specifically allowed or requested by the donor. Corporate donors may be publicized with their consent as part of advertising related to SDHC events.

This policy applies to all information received by SDHC, both online and offline, as well as any electronic, written, or oral communications.

To the extent any donations are processed through a third-party service provider, SDHC will only use donor information for purposes necessary to process the donation.
